A 3D perspective view of a completed LEGO Technic structure. The structure is built on a large blue base plate. On the left side of the base plate, there is a central mechanism consisting of a grey Technic brick with a black axle passing through it, and a black Technic brick with a black axle passing through it. A black Technic brick is also visible on the right side of the base plate. On the right side of the base plate, there is a large, multi-layered rectangular block. This block is built using grey Technic bricks and has a black Technic brick on top. The block has a large rectangular opening in the center and a smaller rectangular opening on the right side. The entire structure is built using grey Technic bricks and black axles.
